@/Arpro Erp Module Job-Order “Studies of Surveyors and Architects”

@/Arpro designed for platforms:

The enterprise solution aimed at professionals: studies of surveyors, architects and engineers, for the management of the works commissioned by customers.

The organization of the study from the activities of technical staff, the management of documents related to the contract or practice, until the completion of accounting with the issue of sales invoices. Updates the payment of suppliers and customers, the control of the bank transactions of the study.

Quote

This initial phase allows the preparation of a quote where in addition to general information, are detailed alleged activities of the technical staff (consulting, designing, ...), alleged materials to be used, the total values estimated with costs and presumed margins.

Job Order management

Created as new document or generated by an existing quote, can contains all the necessary information: customer references, terms of delivery and payment, start and delivery dates, forms where you can enter data and customizable spaces for the single needs. The data of the body can be divided into several categories: consulting or design, materials, free descriptions.

It's possible also managing correlated documents like external links: specifications, metric computations, specification documents, technical data, photos and so on.

Valuation of the costs

Occurs through the classical methodology of recording the repair of yard and the hours entered by the personnel into the technical department. It's available a special form that simplifies this operation, by type the work center and all the necessary values in order.

Analysis of quote inventories/ consumptive

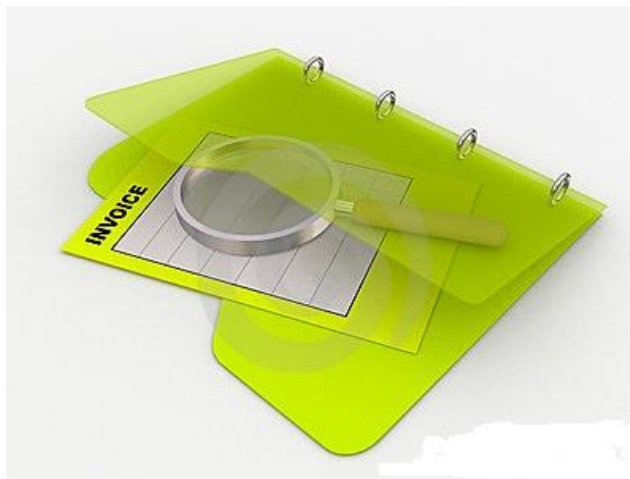

It's available an evaluation for individual activities or the whole job order, where they're highlighted the variations between the values initially estimated and the values gradually scheduled with the work; the analysis can affect also individual operators.

@/Arpro designed for platforms:

Accounting

Partial processing of the job order (work progress state) or total produces the corresponding sales invoices in the accounting area, and records of payments. They're available several reports: totals for customer, links with the banking system, reports on maturity in foreign currency, ...

There are many search functions that can filter various job orders: for customer, beginning or delivery date, operators, ...

The print module is customizable by the user through a graphical and interactive system; other reports show primary data which are present in different job orders. You can duplicate job orders also between different years, allowing the recovery of previous work and setting them to current situations.
